

Elephuck:

These images are available to use by individuals to promote condom awareness. Since they were first posted on the web the Elephuck images have appeared on many sites and been seen by millions around the world.

Designer:

The original Elephuck images were created by Ziemowit Maj a Polish designer and illustrator who works at Creative Orchestra (London) one of the world's leading creative advertising agencies.

Free To Use:

Creative Orchestra have decided to launch the Elephuck site to allow people to download and use these images (© Ziemowit Maj 2006) as part of a sexual health campaign to encourage people to think about using condoms. As an ethical not for profit agency we like to promote social causes. See also www.h2owalk.org. Put them on your website, print them out, use them on T-shirts, it is up to you. But please respect the concept.

Limitations:

However, we offer an open licence to individuals only and only when used without financial or commercial gain. This does not surrender our copyright. Any organisations, groups, companies, governments, councils wishing to use these images or those seeking to use them commercially need to discuss a licence agreement with us.
